Resource Day 1B: Model setting and character description

Use the model text below to help you to structure the setting and character description.

As I was walking towards my field, I noticed that the door of Mr Jones' horse stable door had been left open. I thought it was strange because it was always locked if no one was around. I decided to check that the horses inside were safe.

As I entered, I noticed that the stable floor was scattered with dry, withered hay. Bright sunlight squeezed through the gaps in the high, wooden ceiling which reflected off the shiny metal stall gates. There was not a sound apart from the occasional horse bray that echoed up to the stable roof.

A horse's head stuck out of its stall. The horse looked shaken and as I got closer, I knew something was wrong. Its mane was multi-coloured and had been spiked up. I went to pat the horse to reassure it, but it immediately backed away and turned its back on me. Immediately, I noticed that its tail had been styled into dreadlocks and dyed green.

At this point, I ran out of the stable and went to warn Mr Jones.

Police are appealing for witnesses following an attack on two Shetland ponies happened?

What

People broke in to a stable and restyled their tails.

Where did it happen?

The incident happened at Higher Blackshaw Farm.

What did other people say?

Mr Williams saw a car driving away and Mrs Duckworth found some scissors that may have been used in the attack.

Following a break-in at a local horse stables, two ponies were left upset and confused after their manes and tails were mysteriously cut and styled. One pony was left with a green mohican and the other had dreadlocks on its tail and a multi-coloured mane.

The incident happened overnight on April 9th at Higher Blackshaw Farm, Blackshaw Head, Hebden Bridge.

It is thought that it was a practical joke as the ponies were not physically harmed. This unpleasant incident has understandably also caused distress to the animals' owner. Officers are investigating whether the perpetrator was a local hairdresser and are looking for clues at nearby salons.

The police are hopeful that they will catch the perpetrator because there were eyewitnesses.

"I saw a dark blue vehicle driving at speed down the country roads near the farm," reported Mr Williams to the officers investigating the crime.

"I found a pair of scissors and I now know why they were dumped by my fence!" stated Mrs Duckworth who owns several fields nearby.

We are appealing for further information about this peculiar incident and we would ask anyone who has any heard or saw anything suspicious to contact West Yorkshire Police on 101 or CrimeStoppers on 0800 555 111.

Who was involved?

Two ponies and one trespasser or more.

When did it happen?

The incident took place on 9th April.

Why do they think it happened?

They think it happened because the trespasser was playing a practical joke.

Roman Coin Surprise for School Teacher

Reported by Owen Butcher, Media Correspondent, Glastonbury

Nine Roman Coins have been discovered in the Somerset garden of School Teacher Mrs Ship and are down to be put on public display.

It was last year when Sally Ship, an art teacher from Somerset, decided to have an extension built on her home. A few days after the building began, Sally made the find of her life. She noticed something in the hole that the builders were digging and knew instantly that it was something special.

The discovery has created great excitement in the small town and the coins are set to be put on display in the local museum and taken into local schools for children to see.

"We know that there were a number of Roman forts in the local area, so we think believe that the silver coins have been there for over 1500 years," claimed Mr Doyle who is a local archaeologist.

"We don't usually have many exciting things happen as the town is so small. Everyone is speculating how the coins got there. The discovery really is the talk of the town!" remarked Mrs Barker who is a Glastonbury resident.

If you would like to see the Roman coins, the local council have said that they will be on display at Glastonbury Local History Museum from 15th May 2020.

Back to Earth With a Bump!

Reported by Amanda Kelper, Media Correspondent, London

After a six month stay on the International Space Station (ISS), astronauts Tim Peake, Yuri Malenchenko and Timothy Kopra have finally returned home to Earth.

Last week, British astronaut Tim Peake returned home from an incredible six month stay aboard the ISS, alongside his crewmates Yuri Malenchenko and Timothy Kopra. He is the first British astronaut to have lived on the International Space Station (ISS) which Station is a large spacecraft that travels around the Earth.

The men were launched into space on 15th December 2015. The mission involved conducting experiments, testing out new technology and inspiring the next generations of space travellers. Peake told reporters that the best part of his mission was a spacewalk where he had to make a repair on the space station.

Having circled the planet nearly 3,000 times, the crew returned home to Earth in a capsule. The astronauts landed safely and in good health. Having arrived back on solid ground, the astronauts were pulled out of the capsule and carried as their leg muscles were too weak to walk.

"The smells of Earth are so strong and it's wonderful to be back in the fresh air," answered Peake while he was checked over by doctors.

If you would like to receive further updates from the ISS on other space programmes, visit the NASA website.
